Logline

Three solo stories showing what the male members of Youngblood are up to on one ordinary Saturday night.

Synopsis*Part One: "...And I Don't Have a Wooden Heart."

Hoping to distract himself from his hopeless infatuation with Twilight, Shaft decides to spar with Custer, his robotic practice dummy, which he's gotten Leonard (Big Brother) to soup up. Custer promptly breaks out of the mansion and goes on a rampage through the city. Shaft finally manages to stop it, but it beats the snot out of him in the process. To add insult to injury, when Custer crashes into a movie theater, Shaft ends up seeing part of the sensationalized Youngblood movie starring his former teammate, Badrock, which he's been avoiding for months.

Part Two: "The Girl of His Dreams"

Meanwhile, Leonard Doyle gets himself and his biggest Big Brother robot cleaned up for a date with Suprema. They fly to a distant star system for dinner at Rigellian Rykk's Restaurant of Recollection, then to the Solar Cinema to catch a movie--and do some serious necking. Returning to Earth, Suprema invites Leonard up to her room in the Citadel Supreme, but a disapproving Supreme interrupts them, and Leonard heads home.

Part Three: "Better Living Through Chemistry"

Back in the House of Wax, Johnny Panic, whom his teammates have foolishly left alone, passes the time by trying out a couple of new experimental drugs--which causes him to hallucinate a kid sidekick called Sparky. Thinking his imaginary "sidekick" is in danger, Johnny nearly shoots Waxey Doyle with a heat ray gun, sets his limo on fire with a welding torch, and smashes the burning limo into the mansion. Believing "Sparky" is dead, Johnny gives a tearful eulogy for his little buddy...while Leonard Doyle tries to talk his adoptive father out of having Johnny arrested.
